

Ana Inés Bonet - CV

Ana Inés Bonet was born in Buenos Aires, Argentina and had graduated from Universidad del Salvador with a degree in Chemistry. Unexpectedly, an average summer job then drastically changed her original path and sent her towards a career in the audiovisual and marketing industry where she produced several TV programs travelling all over the world. During those days of traveling is when she found her biggest passion; photography. In 1998, Ana came to the USA with her husband to start a family and has since lived in multiple cities. 15 years later, she was determined to begin showcasing her photography.

From Argentina to Miami to Chicago where she lives today, she has participated in several trainings to learn and improve her camera techniques. When experimenting through textures and abstract, she decided to focus on both nature as well as black & white images. Bonet was invited to participate in the Chicago Botanic Gardens exhibition in 2018 and again in 2019 “Focusing on Nature”. She works on a variety of themes as landscapes and flowers with a very personal perspective and the use of light as a distinctive character. She also works for different interior design professionals and personal projects such as the “Climate Change” and “Open Windows” Collections.
